

AJ Bell Income Ready-made portfolio half-yearly update

As of 30/06/2019

Commentary

Over the first half of 2019, the Income portfolio delivered a return of 12.43%. That makes an overall return of 10.09% since its inception on 12 December 2018. Among the top contributors to this return were equity funds, notably BNY Mellon Global Income, which performed strongly on both an absolute and relative basis thanks to its focus on the highest-quality companies.

Overall, it's been a strong six months across the markets generally. Both the stock and bond markets have delivered strongly positive overall returns, in sharp contrast to their disappointing end to 2018. This tailwind has happened despite a weakening macroeconomic backdrop – though the markets appear buoyed by the prospect that central banks around the world will step in again with monetary stimulus and interest rate cuts if economies continue to stall.

In March 2019, we adjusted the line-up of funds in this portfolio, removing Janus Henderson UK Property PAIF and increasing the weighting of First State Global Listed Infrastructure. We made this adjustment because of changes to the pricing approach on the Janus Henderson UK Property fund, which introduced an upfront cost of approximately 5%.

Portfolio rating

The risk rating of the portfolio depends on the type of assets it invests in. Bonds are more conservative because they offer a more certain (though typically lower) return. Shares are more aggressive because they offer a less certain (though typically higher) return.

Keep in mind this applies over the longer term: five years or more.
